Welcome to North Dakota

Hot Tots Military Appreciation Baseball Game

In North Dakota we are so very fortunate to experience four distinct and very different seasons. Of course summer is by far the most active time of the year for vacations and weekend trips, but spring and fall also afford those who look for activities the opportunities to get out and enjoy not only North Dakota, but neighboring states of Montana, Minnesota and South Dakota. And let's not forget those neighbors to the north of us in Saskatchewan and Manitoba. The Summer Adventure guide is one of those "take it along" resources for locating places to go, places to stay, and popular activities. We have even listed a couple of our "Best kept Secret" locations for those of you who want to take the path less traveled.

In combination with several state agencies, we also offer editorial content that will give a little more information about activities and how to best enjoy them.

We also want to thank our many advertisers who are eager to help you enjoy summer 2025 to it's fullest. Got questions? Give them a call. It is our mid-western personality to give you friendly advice and encouragement.

So summer, here we come. Have a great time and take lots of pictures.

Let's celebrate this season by capturing it!

Enter the Sensational Summer Photo Contest

The Coopers: Why Minot Meant So Much

ERIN BEENE

It was a beautiful summer morning on Lake Darling, and the wind had finally died down enough for eight-year-old Waylon to try kayaking solo for the first time. "Seeing my son's confidence and watching him explore was so exciting. It was also a rare glimpse at a windless North Dakota moment," said Kristen Cooper, who captured the winning photo that ultimately landed on the front cover of the Northern Sentry's Summer Adventure Guide.

Even though the Cooper family—Chief Master Sergeant Rusty Cooper, his wife Kristen, and their son Waylon—has since moved away from Minot AFB, they made the most of their time there. Kristen explained that they are an "all-in" type of family, always seeking out the unique joys of every assignment. To their surprise, finding joy in Minot was much easier than expected, despite the base's infamous reputation.

Kristen gushed about North Dakota summers and the tight-knit Minot community, both on and off base. Their absolute favorite activity was attending Minot Hot Tots games, which quickly became a summer tradition. "We went to several games each summer and loved every minute of it," she said. "Despite what some may think about Minot, our summers were jampacked with activities." She praised the local community, saying, "The Minot community outdoes itself with the variety of activities for a small town. There is never a dull moment!" The Coopers left Minot in April 2025, but Kristen was heartbroken to miss out on one more beautiful North Dakota summer.

The Coopers were also deeply involved with Northern Sentry's community outreach programs from the start. "The Northern Sentry was a big part of us finding our joy here," Kristen said. They picked up the 2023 Summer Adventure Guide and used it to plan their outings, making the most of everything Minot had to offer. She emphasized that an open-minded approach is key to enjoying Minot, saying, "Go in with that mentality, utilize these resources, take advantage of the Northern Sentry's Summer and Winter Guides—and you'll have an amazing experience!"

With plenty of affordable and free activities available yearround, Minot and Minot AFB offer a uniquely rewarding experience for military families. Before leaving, Kristen shared some advice for those new to the base: "Don't try to make Minot something it's not. If you do, you won't enjoy it." Instead, she encouraged new arrivals to embrace all that Minot has to offer—especially during the summer—because "there's way more to do here than you think!"

The Cooper Family, CMSgt Rusty Cooper, Kristen, and Waylon absolutely loved their time at Minot AFB!

What comes to mind when you're asked to name the most beautiful state in the U.S.? Do you picture Maine's vibrant fall foliage, Colorado's snow-covered Rockies, or perhaps the sparkling, endless beaches of Hawaii? These destinations are well known for their breathtaking natural landscapes. But let's take a wild guess, North Dakota probably didn't crack your top 10, did it?

Most people don't think of North Dakota as particularly majestic. The common image is one of flat, empty plains dotted with cows and blasted by bone-chilling wind in the winter. Honestly, that's not entirely wrong. But this quiet, fourth-least-populated state holds a hidden kind of beauty that you don't truly discover until you're living in it. And that's the magic. It's exactly the quiet, untouched openness that makes North Dakota so unique.

The beauty here looks different. It feels different. But if you take a moment to slow down and really see it, beyond the surface, you just might fall in love with it too.

Minot Sights to See. "I wanted something that would be a great memento for people when they PCS from here. It features many of the major places that people know of when they think of Minot."

The Most Beautiful Things About North Dakota:

The Vast Sky.

With few buildings and little urban sprawl, the land feels almost untouched by time. On a summer day, the wind rolls softly across endless prairies, and the sky stretches wide in every direction. The daylight lingers late into the evening, almost until 11 p.m., and the air is so crisp and clean, it makes you feel fully alive.

The People.

There may not be a large population here, but the people who are here genuinely want to be. They're warm, happy, and curious about you. Unlike some tourist destinations where locals grow weary of visitors or newcomers, North Dakotans welcome others with open arms. The culture is a perfect blend of Southern hospitality and Midwestern kindness, wrapped up in a strong sense of community.

The Attitude.

Yes, the winters are rough. But the summers? Absolutely dreamy. From May through September, people take full advantage of every warm, sunny day. They go camping, take fishing trips, plan lakeside getaways, or simply enjoy their backyard. Life slows down. The pace softens. There's a shared sense of "just enjoy it" that you don't find everywhere. It feels like a collective exhale after a long, cold season—and the joy is contagious.

The iconic "falling barn" along Highway 83 is a frequent topic of conversation among military families, many of whom wonder when it will finally give in to the wind and collapse for good.

The Land.

Despite the old "flat and boring" stereotype, North Dakota offers a surprisingly varied landscape. A century ago, homesteaders rushed west to farm this land. Though many have moved on, their abandoned barns and buildings still stand, weathered and hauntingly beautiful. Before them, the Dakota (Sioux) and Chippewa tribes called this region home, living off the prairie, buffalo, and rivers that defined it. Today, North Dakota includes a corner of Badlands National Park, the rolling buttes of Theodore Roosevelt National Park, and even the lush Turtle Mountains in the north.

North Dakota may not be what most would call "classically beautiful," but that's what makes it so special. Its beauty is raw, quiet, and deeply rooted in simplicity, and it's something only those who live here and choose to look for it will ever truly understand.

Summertime in Minot is the perfect time to get outside. Many members of Team Minot will set out to enjoy camping, hiking and State as well as National Parks. It is also the perfect time to connect with nature by planting a garden. But with its shorter growing season, colder winter temperatures, and unwelcome garden visitors, figuring out how to get started can feel daunting.

The first consideration in Minot for outdoor gardening is the climate. Ward County falls under the USDA plant hardiness zone 4a. This means the average low temperature range in the winter falls between -25 and -30 degrees Fahrenheit. It gets colder at times, but this average temperature zone is what affects the plants and soil. Another important consideration are the last and first frost dates of the season. According to the Old Farmer's Almanac, the last frost date falls about May 15th, with potential for frosty mornings returning around September 27th. On average, residents can enjoy a growing season of about 134 days each summer.

Next consideration for gardeners is space. Pots, in-ground gardens, and raised beds can all be seen around MAFB. For the more ambitious (or a group of friends looking to share the work) the base's Outdoor Recreation center offers 10-foot by 20-foot community garden plots. These become available to the general public from May 5-16 and can be rented for the entire growing season at a flat fee of $20. A word to the wise: choose a space near one of the limited hose spigots for easier watering, and be prepared for lots and lots of weeding.

But where to purchase plants and gardening supplies? Those on a budget may prefer to shop at big box stores, but local garden centers are often the safer bet in terms of plant health and suitability to Minot's climate. Lowes Garden Center and Green Thumb Greenhouse are favorites of many local gardeners. Prairie Bistro and Gardens in Mohall, ND is a longer drive, but offers a tasty lunch menu and engaging community events, that make for a fun mini adventure. Local stores stock a variety of plants May through mid June, after which they offer less of everything and generally no longer carry vegetables.

An easy way to get a head start on Minot's growing season is to start seeds inside - sometimes as early as late March. These seedlings can be brought outside on warmer days to 'harden off.' Experienced gardeners may want to try their luck and plant before the last frost date to extend their season. This requires keeping an eye on overnight temperatures and having a cover on hand if frost threatens. Cool season crops like peas or kale are great, safer choices for this approach.

Herbs and flowers are great options for those who are planting a bit later in the growing

Square foot gardening and companion planting can help make the most of your backyard raised bed.

Minot local greenhouses include plants particularly suited to the area's climate and growing season.

A few gardening basics: Most plants want soil that drains well and has the right balance of nutrients. All seedlings will experience 'transplant shock' for up to two weeks. When they finally take off, Minot's longer daylight will cause rapid growth. Fertilize at the beginning of the season and at least once more about halfway through. Water deeply, with slightly less frequency, aiming at the base of the plant and not the leaves. Frequent, shallow watering leads to poor root development and weak plants.

Missed out on this initial planting window? Seed packets for quick-growing vegetables like radishes, lettuces, turnips, and beets are an option. Herbs do well in pots and will pay you back in savings at the grocery store. Easy to grow favorites include basil, thyme, oregano and rosemary. At a minimum one can always throw some less expensive annuals or cold tolerant mums into a planter for a bright front door display. This reporter's favorite for any outdoor hangout, if you can find them, are mosquito plants, which can help keep one of summer's less welcome visitors at bay.

Speaking of unwelcome visitors, the number one threat to both garden and sanity in many base residents' experience are the dak rats. These tend to be attracted to tender seedlings of all kinds as well as leafy vegetables such as lettuces. To avoid them entirely, plant their preferred snacks in pots or raised beds that are entirely off the ground. Otherwise, keep your soil well-watered as they prefer digging in dry soil, and sprinkle cayenne pepper around and on any plants you want them to avoid. For larger areas, such as a community plot, planting strong smelling onions and garlic along outside rows is thought to keep them away.

Cicero once said that, "if you have a garden and a library you have everything you need." Ancient intuition has been backed up by modern science. A quick Internet search will reveal a long list of benefits from gardening to include a boost in immunity, improved cognitive function, and better overall mental and physical health. So get out in the dirt this summer - don't let Minot's shorter growing season stop you from experiencing the joys and benefits of gardening!

Dakota Sun Gardens and Winery has many wines made on site available for tasting and purchase. The wines are also sold at many North Dakota bottle shops. We use as much locally and regionally grown fruits and grapes as possible. The winery is always interested in fruit purchase from other growers. Our extensive gardens and water features exhibit flower and shrubbery displays using natural rock, driftwood, and metal sculpture as accents. Meetings, groups or individuals may be arranged, with prior reservations. Beautiful garden wedding venue. The nominal per person charge includes guided garden tours and wine tastings.

Elaine's Garden and Guesthouse

Balfour, ND | 3238 Highway

A beautifully restored 1915 home with a large porch, veranda, theme-decorated bedrooms, completely furnished for all overnite guests as well as hunters. Acres of hunting land and a warm place to clean your birds. Added attraction on the farm site is a restored one-room schoolhouse and beautiful gardens during the growing season.

Floral Flag Display

International Peace Garden | 10939 Highway 281
The Floral Flag Display is the only display remaining the same each year. The American red, white and blue, stars and stripes and the Canadian red Maple Leaf are located in the Formal Garden area.

International Peace Garden

15 Miles North of Dunseith, ND | 701-263-4390 Since 1932, nestled in the Turtle Mountains of North Dakota and Manitoba, the International Peace Garden is one of the continent's most symbolic and scenic attractions. Thousands of tourists flock to this unique tribute to peace and friendship between the United States of America and Canada. The park plants over 150,000 flowers each year. Main features of the garden include an 18-foot floral clock display, fountains, a chime, and twin 120-foot concrete towers straddling the border with a peace chapel at their base. The Arma Sifton bells were a gift from Central United Church of Brandon, Manitoba, in 1972. The tower was supplied by North Dakota Veterans and dedicated in 1976. Some building remains of the World Trade Center attacks of September 11, 2001, have been placed in part of the garden. The International Peace Garden, "Like No Other Place on Earth," is a perfect and memorable retreat, where people and nature meet.

Japanese Garden

Grand Forks, ND | 11th Avenue and 34th Street 701-746-2750

This lovely and unique garden - featuring the beauty of rocks, water, hills, trees and plants - graces the landscape of Sertoma Park. A gift from the residents of Grand Forks' sister city, Awano, Japan, it commemorates the recovery from the 1997 Red River Valley flood.

Rainbow Garden & Sculpture Walk

Mayville, ND | 367 3rd St SW (HWY 200)
Rainbow Garden has seven plots, each demonstrating a different theme. Their goal is that the variety in the gardens gives visitors ideas for their own yards. The seven gardens are The English Garden, The White Garden, The Cottage Garden, The Rock Garden, The Children's Garden, The Herb Garden, and The Labyrinth. Since they have become fairly competent at the craft of gardening, they have graduated to the art of design by concentrating on color, texture, shape and arrangement. They are building a collection of commissioned sculptures from artists around the nation. Currently there are 15 sculptures and poems in the Sculpture Walk.

Sunken Garden

International Peace Garden | 10939 Highway 281 Interestingly, a series of five uniform terraces extend down to the Sunken Garden area. Located in the center of each terrace are small pools that have connecting water channels that spill into each pool on the next level. So ultimately, water flows from one ornamental pool on each terrace to the next, and finally down to the reflecting octagon shaped pond in the center of the Sunken Garden, where the water is pumped back to the first terrace to begin its round again! Along the mazed walkways of The Sunken Garden are two stone garden houses financed by the North Dakota and U.S. National Homemakers' Clubs. The placement of these original houses marks the Avenues of America and Canada and both leads to their respective countries. Thousands of perennials, flowering shrubs and annuals fill the mosaic-like beds surrounding the focal pond in the Sunken Garden. Within walking distance is the Interpretive Center housing the cafe, retail store, moderate horticultural library and conservatory.

A rich culture thrived along the banks of the Missouri River in west-central North Dakota when Meriwether Lewis and William Clark arrived in 1804. Today, trails weave through the sage and wildflowerdappled prairie to the remains of villages, including one where Sakakawea lived before she joined Lewis and Clark.

Exploring North Bakota's Enchanted Highway

When people think of North Dakota, wide-open prairies and rugged badlands often come to mind. But tucked away just off Exit 72 of I-94, between the towns of Gladstone and Regent, lies one of the most unexpected and delightful road trip experiences in the Midwest: the Enchanted Highway.

Stretching 32 miles through golden fields and rolling hills, the Enchanted Highway is a larger-than-life outdoor art exhibit featuring a series of massive metal sculptures—some as tall as a six-story building. Created by local artist and former school principal Gary Greff, the project began in 1989 with a simple dream: to breathe new life into his declining hometown of Regent and draw travelers off the interstate to explore the heart of North Dakota.

Greff, a self-taught artist, found inspiration in local wildlife, history, and community pride. Using scrap metal and a powerful imagination, he began welding together what would become some of the world's largest scrap metal sculptures. Over the decades, Greff has built and maintained the sculptures largely by hand—welding, sandblasting, and painting every detail himself.

What started as a single installation has since grown into a beloved attraction that captures the attention and admiration of thousands of visitors each year.

Each sculpture along the route tells a story—some whimsical, some nostalgic, and all unforgettable. Here's what you can expect on this magical journey:

- Geese in Flight (Exit 72 off 1-94): Towering 110 feet tall and 154 feet wide, this dazzling display of geese flying across a sunburst holds the Guinness World Record for the largest metal sculpture in the world. The access road is lined with 200 smaller geese, guiding you onto the highway.
- Deer Crossing (100 Ave SW): This scene features a pair of deer mid-leap, symbolizing the beauty and agility of North Dakota's wildlife.

- Grasshoppers in the Field: A giant 60-foot grasshopper dominates the prairie, surrounded by smaller grasshoppers, paying tribute to the area's agricultural roots and the bugs that are part of farm life.
- Fisherman's Dream: A 70-foot trout bursts out of stylized water in a vivid scene that celebrates outdoor recreation and fishing culture.
- Pheasants on the Prairie: A colorful family of pheasants—a 40-foot rooster, a 35-foot hen, and two chicks—stand proudly against the open sky, capturing a slice of life on the plains.
- Theodore Roosevelt Rides Again: A salute to North Dakota's favorite adopted son, this sculpture features a massive figure of Roosevelt on horseback, accompanied by a stagecoach and other elements from the frontier era.
- The Tin Family: One of the most beloved installations, the Tin Family features a 45-foot-tall father holding a pitchfork, a 44-foot-tall mother with a purse, and a 23-foot-tall son holding a lollipop. It's a tribute to hardworking farm families and classic Americana

Tin Man: "The World's Largest Tin Family", which can be found on the Enchanted Highway in North Dakota

As if the Enchanted Highway wasn't magical enough, a brand-new attraction is being unveiled in Summer 2025: "The Knight and the Dragon."

This dramatic installation brings a medieval twist to the prairie, featuring a towering knight in shining armor defending the Enchanted Castle from a fearsome metal dragon. With intricate detailing, dramatic scale, and imaginative storytelling, this sculpture promises to become a new favorite for both kids and adults. It will be located just beyond The Tin Family, making it the final (and perhaps most fantastical) stop before reaching Regent, North Dakota. The journey ends in the quaint town of Regent at the Enchanted Castle, where visitors can explore the Gift Shop and Motel for souvenirs, snacks, and a whimsical place to stay. Styled like a medieval castle, this whimsical destination offers souvenirs, snacks, and even lodging for those who want to spend a night in a fairy-tale setting. It's the perfect way to end your adventure—or to rest up before heading back out on the open road.

Tips for Travelers

- Distance from Minot: The Enchanted Highway is approximately 165 miles (about a 2.5-hour drive) southwest of Minot. With a round trip of around 5 hours this is a perfect day trip.
- Flexible Route: There's no wrong way to enjoy the Enchanted Highway! You can turn around at any point along the route if you're short on time or just want a shorter trip, each sculpture is accessible and enjoyable on its own.

Residents of Minot AFB Sadie and Laijla Tilstra visiting at Geese in Flight: Enchanted Highway sculpture off Exit 72 of 1-94.

The Enchanted Highway newest sculpture which should be completed by Summer 2025.

- Timing: Summer is the best season to visit, with clear skies, green fields, and ideal road trip weather.
- Photos: Be sure to stop and take photos at each sculpture—parking areas are available and safe to pull into.
- Gas & Snacks: Fill up before you start the drive, as services are limited along the route. The nearest gas station is 14 miles west at the Cenex in Richardton, or you can find additional options in Dickinson or at the end of the Enchanted Highway in Regent, ND. Services are limited along the route, so plan ahead.
- Restrooms: Public restrooms are not available at every sculpture stop, so it's a good idea to use facilities in Richardton, Dickinson, or Regent before or after your drive.
- Nearby Attractions: Extend your trip by visiting Theodore Roosevelt National Park, the Dakota Dinosaur Museum, or the Medora Musical, all within a short drive from Regent.

More than just an art exhibit, the Enchanted Highway is a testament to the power of creativity, community pride, and one man's determination to make a difference. Whether you're a North Dakota native or just passing through, this unique destination offers something rare: a genuine sense of wonder. So pack up the car, grab your camera, and take the scenic route this summer. Because sometimes, the road less traveled really is the most enchanted.

Beaver Lake State Park

Trails: Beaver Lake Nature Trail, Old Settlers Trail, Woodland Trail, Moraine Loop Trail, Lake View Loop Trail and Rolling Prairie Loop Trail. Beaver Lake State Park's non-motorized trail system covers 5.34 miles in a series of loops and several connecting segment trails that are open for hiking and biking. The Beaver Lake Nature Trail is a self-guided nature trail open to hiking only. Most of the trail system surface is either grass, dirt or hard-packed single-track, with manageable grades with only a few steeper sections.

Bison Plant Trail

This is Minot's little jewel, located a few miles east of Minot off of Highway 52. The 3.5 mile trail is now entirely comprised of single track trail looping through a beautiful stash of city owned wooded land. It offers excellent shade and varies from fast hard pack dirt cruising sections to tight technical sections. Its location just outside of town makes it a great place to go pump out a couple laps after work. There is also a shorter variation of the trail (2.1 miles) used for running. All trails are well maintained.

Black Butte Adventures Trail

Located near Sawyer, this is a beautiful ride that traverses pasture land above the river and climbs over Black Butte. The trail is a tight single track with occasional rock technical sections, and one muddy water crossing. The main loop is about 5 miles and there is a secondary 3 mile loop across the cattle guard in the southwest.

Burlington Walking Path

The Burlington Walking Path is a paved trail through rural, rolling countryside that connects the cities of Minot and Burlington in north-central North Dakota. It parallels County Road 15 for most of its length, which becomes 4th Avenue as the trail approaches Minot.

Cross Ranch State Park

Trails: Matah "River" Trail, Ma-ak-oti "Old Villiage" Trail, Cottonwood Trail/Gaines Trail, Levis Trail and TNC Self-Guided Prairie Trail. Situated along the west bank of the Missouri River, the 589-acre Cross Ranch State Park and adjacent 6,000-acre Cross Ranch Nature Preserve are one of the few areas in North Dakota to offer a true primitive outdoor experience. Over 16 miles of trail wind through Cross Ranch State Park and Nature Preserve. Trail posts identify the trail names.

Fort Abraham Lincoln State Park

Trails: Scouts Trail System, Little Soldier Loop Trail, Young Hawk Interpretive Trail, Bob Tailed Pass, Little Sioux Trail, Bloody Knife Trail and Nature Trail. Fort Abraham Lincoln State Park's non-motorized trail system covers approximately 6.75 miles in a series of loops and several connecting segment trails that are open for hiking, biking and horseback riding. Most of the trail system surface is either grass, dirt or hard-packed single-track, with manageable grades with only a few steeper sections.

Fort Ransom State Park

Trails: North Country National Scenic Trail, Redetzke Ridge Trail, Pederson Hills Trail, North Fork Trail, Nelson 80, Firebreak Trail, Little Twig Nature Trail, Ridgeline Nature Trail, Valley View Trail, Oak Ridge Trail, Meadow Run Trail, Riverside Trail and Southgate Trail Fort Ransom State Park's non-motorized trail system covers over 14.64-miles in a series of loops, trails and connecting segment trails most which are multi-use and are open for hiking, horseback riding, biking, cross country skiing and snowshoeing. The majority of the trail system surface is either grass, dirt or hard-packed single-track, with manageable grades with only a few steeper sections.

Fort Stevenson State Park

The park offers 8.13 miles of non-motorized, multi use trail which provides a pleasant place to bike, walk, jog and cross country ski. This includes a .22 mile interpretive trail and a .48 mile arboretum trail.

Grahams Island State Park

Grahams Island State Park has two trails for hiking or walking. One is a 1.6 mile loop that can be accessed by the Sivert Thompson activity center. The other is a .5 mile loop located on the north end of the west campground.

Icelandic State Park

A 3/4 mile self-guided interpretive trail begins at the Gunlogson Homestead site and loops along the south side of the Tongue River. Other trails continue throughout the 200 acre Gunlogson Nature Preserve and natural wooded area along the river. Foot bridges provide easy crossing of the Tongue River and the area's many natural springs. The majority of this 3 mile trail system is groomed and open in the winter for cross-country skiing. A 6 mile paved bike and hiking trail connects the park to Cavalier and to the golf course just west of the park.

Lake Metigoshe State Park

Trails: Old Oak Trail and Multi-Use Trails
Nestled in the scenic Turtle Mountains, on the shores of Lake Metigoshe, Lake Metigoshe State Park was constructed by the Works Progress Administration (WPA) in the 1930s and is one of the most popular year-round vacation spots in North Dakota.

Lake Sakakawea State Park

Several multi-use trails in the park are perfect for hiking, biking, cross-country skiing and snowshoeing. Hikers are encouraged to take in the scenic beauty of the completed segments of the North Country National Scenic Trail found in this park.

Lewis and Clark State Park

Trails: Prairie Nature Trail, North Trail System, South Trail System and Shoreline Trail

On the north shore of Lake Sakakawea, Lewis and Clark State Park is situated among the rugged buttes of the North Dakota Badlands. The park is named for the Corps of Discovery explorers Meriwether Lewis and William Clark The expedition camped nearby on April 17, 1805.

Little Missouri State Park

Little Missouri State Park has over 47 miles of trails for horseback riding and hiking. Horse corrals are available for individuals and groups bringing in their own horses, and several artesian wells are located within the park for horse watering purposes. Trails are marked at major interestions.

Sully Creek State Park

Horseback riders, mountain bikers, and hikers have access to the 120-mile long Maah Daah Hey Trail, which traverses the Little Missouri National Grassland and to the 50 plus mile long Maah Daah Hey II Trail. Those using the trail should carry adequate potable water for drinking. In the early spring or during high flows, canoeing the Little Missouri River also offers a unique perspective of the Badlands.

Tatman Branch Trail

The trail begins on the outskirts of Minot and travels north for 10 miles along the former Tatman Branch Line. The path parallels 27th Street NE for most of its length, offering a straight, flat route through the countryside that ends at Minot Gate, the main entrance to the military base.

Turtle River State Park

Turtle River State Park has a system of mountain biking, hiking, and interpretive trails.

Upper Souris Wildlife Refuge

Trails: Oxbow Nature Trail, Overlook Nature Trail, Cottonwood Nature Trail and Centennial Wildlife Nature Trail Located 30 miles NW of Minot, the Upper Souris National Wildlife Refuge has five nature trails for walking and hiking, two canoe trails and one auto tour route.

Long Distance Biking Routes

With its low traffic and excellent country roads, North Dakota is great for cross-country bike trips. For particularly scenic treks, check out North Dakota's designated scenic byways and backways on the N.D. State Highway Map. Before riding, check at area Chamber of Commerce offices, state and federal parks, state and federal Forest Service offices and local bike shops for their recommendations on the best routes.

Some scenic areas to ride in North Dakota include:

- Little Missouri National Grassland
- Theodore Roosevelt National Park
- Lewis and Clark Trail (State highways 1804 and 1806)
- Pembina Gorge/Walhalla Area
- Turtle Mountains/Lake Metigoshe
- Fort Ransom State Park
- Sheyenne National Grassland

It's almost like stepping into a kaleidoscope of colors and shapes – the wide array of fishing tackle and presentation options lining fishing sections in stores across North Dakota.

It doesn't matter if it's a local convenience store or a diverse business like Home of Economy, summer fishing and its tackle are popular. While many residents hone in on walleye for their great taste, several other species offer options.

The N.D. Game and Fish Department manages more than 400 lakes across the state and here are some tips for area fishing adventures this summer:

BASS, LARGEMOUTH:

When it comes to largemouth bass and their pension for warm water, in North Dakota that means Oliver County's Nelson Lake. "All of Nelson Lake has warm water in it compared to our other lakes," described Game and Fish Department North-central District Fisheries Supervisor Jason Lee.

Five miles east and three miles south of Center, the man-made lake has warm water year-around with abundant forage so warm water loving largemouth bass grow faster there than other lakes. Its natural reproduction is supplemented periodically with stocking, Lee added. Try traditional bass techniques for good numbers of largemouth in a variety of sizes.

Kota-Ray Dam southeast of Ray in Williams County might be a pleasant surprise for anglers in search of nice largemouth bass, as well.

Oliver County's Nelson Lake — and its year-around warm water — provide what could be considered North Dakota's most consistent largemouth bass fishery.

BASS, SMALLMOUTH:

Feisty smallmouth bass are most often found in Lake Audubon, Lake Sakakawea, Hecker's Lake, any of the chain of lakes associated with the McClusky Canal, and the canal itself.

The McClusky Canal and its lakes - Hecker's, New Johns, East Park, and West Park lakes - feeds from the east side of Lake Audubon. Accessing the canal itself can be difficult, Lee advised, because of its steep, rocky edges. Best shore-fishing access points are off road bridges with a fishing pier on the canal northwest of Hecker's Lake, which is southeast of Mercer in Sheridan County.

Lake Audubon is on the east side of U.S. Highway 83 crossing the Lake Sakakawea embankment. The lake has multiple access points and fishing piers, making it excellent for shore-fishing.

Lake Darling northwest of Minot on the Upper Souris National Wildlife Refuge might offer up a smallmouth bass surprise for some anglers but remember that as a wildlife refuge, anglers should follow its special regulations such as no camping.

Smallies prefer gravelly substrate and rocky points with crayfish a popular food source. Lee suggests anglers target rocks and riprap from shore, casting small jigs or crankbaits away from shore or pitching small crankbaits towards shore when boat fishing. He also uses crankbaits as large as No. 9 or 11.

Lake Sakakawea also has smallmouth bass. Try areas with gravel and rocky points on the east end of the "Big Lake", such as areas around Sakakawea State Park.

BASS, WHITE:

Devils Lake is the state's "go to" white bass location. The 2015 age class is currently the most abundant population in the lake and fish could range between 14 and 16 inches. However, the upper end of Lake Sakakawea has its share of white bass at times and they love minnows in the spring.

BLUEGILL:

When it comes to this colorful panfish, head north, anglers, head north...to Lake Metigoshe, that is. Tucked in the Turtle Mountains of Bottineau County about 14 miles northeast of Bottineau, Metigoshe's mix of sub-emergent and emergent aquatic vegetation allows bluegill to escape predation. Its good water quality coupled with ample food means the lake has a nice mix of sizes and age classes.

While Lake Metigoshe is the region's premier bluegill lake, it's not the only one. They're also stocked in a few other lakes and while populations aren't strong, "they're slowly expanding," Lee explained. Try Long Lake (also in Bottineau County), Rice Lake northeast of Ryder (Ward County), South Carlson Lake southwest of Minot, Brush Lake three miles north of Mercer, Hiddenwood Lake south of Makoti, or even Nelson Lake.

Don't look for the numbers of fish from those lakes one might find in Lake Metigoshe but they could provide an occasional nice-sized bluegill, in part because lakes such as Rice, South Carlson, and Brush were stocked with adults a few years ago.

NORTH DAKOTA FISHING

While not nearly as abundant as bluegill in Metigoshe, anglers going to Blacktail Dam northwest of highways U.S. 2 and U.S. 85 junction or Northgate Dam northwest of Bowbells in Burke County could also encounter some success. Smishek Lake northwest of Powers Lake has abundant small bluegill numbers – maybe even a keeper hiding somewhere.

Try a bobber with small hook and nightcrawler pieces from shore, casting along the edge of vegetation and letting the bobber float, Lee offered, or casting light jigs and worm pieces and reeling towards shore from boats.

Lake Metigoshe is the place to go in north-central North Dakota for bluegill. The lake's abundant aquatic vegetation, good water quality, and ample food provide some nice-sized bluegill and activity for anglers of all ages.

CATFISH:

When it comes to catfish in North Dakota, the Red River dividing North Dakota and Minnesota is considered the "go to" destination.

But it doesn't have to be.

Simply head to the Missouri River System, namely the Missouri River tailrace or Lake Sakakawea's back bays — especially those on the upper end around Williston or ones with feeder creeks and tributaries where water warms faster and is more turbid, described Game and Fish Department Missouri River Fisheries Supervisor Dave Fryda.

Native to the Missouri River, channel catfish provide good shore-fishing opportunities on both the river and lake. Given the state's short summers catfish have a short "growing" season. Most average about 2 to 5 pounds, sometimes 7 pounds. "A 10-pounder is pretty big, especially for Lake Sakakawea," Fryda described.

The fishing pier at Lake Audubon's East Totten
Recreation Area provides easy access to shore-fishing opportunities.

Rainbow smelt are the forage of choice for virtually all of Lake Sakakawea's predator fish and channel catfish are no exception. Fryda suggests anglers try any type of bottom rig with dead smelt.

The best tailrace fishing typically begins in June extending into the fall. The cold water of the tailrace produces excellent eater-sized 2- to 3-pound catfish. Try shore-fishing along the boat ramp or take the road east of Garrison Dam National Fish Hatchery to the large pool of water below Garrison Dam spillway where larger catfish may lurk.

Use dead smelt or drift with three-way swivels if boat fishing in the tailrace.

CRAPPIE:

While some areas of the upper end of Lake Sakakawea offer crappie activity, two locations in the region could be considered "go to" spots – Trenton Lake on the south side of the community of Trenton near Williston and Nelson Lake. Williston's John Shunk suggests casting slip bobbers with small jig and minnow or casting traditional crappie rigs. Early season is the best time for Trenton Lake crappie.

Try shallow water of bays for Lake Sakakawea crappie but don't neglect Northgate Dam for crappie.

NORTHERN PIKE:

Summer fishing adventures often begin with northern pike in North Dakota, one of the most common and popular native fish species until walleye overtook the popularity reigns among anglers. "The good thing is they're easy to catch from shore," Lee suggested.

In addition, pike flourish in high water years when shoreline vegetation becomes flooded. While North Dakota is in the midst of a dry spell, ample northern pike opportunities still exist across the region and there is still time to catch them before they head for deeper water in the summer heat.

Pike success is best right after the spawn, but anglers might still want to try places such as Buffalo Lodge Lake northeast of Granville, Rice Lake, Hiddenwood Lake, Makoti Lake (south of Makoti and close to nearby Hiddenwood Lake), the chain of natural lakes in McLean County - Long, Crooked, and Strawberry lakes - and Lake Audubon again because of its abundant shore-fishing opportunities. And don't neglect Lake Darling for pike.

Northwestern pike lakes include Smishek Lake and Blacktail Dam. Now is the time to cast red-and-white Dardevles or large crankbaits from shore, moving out to deeper water in July or August. "The nice thing about pike is they grow fast," Lee added.

Just a note when pike fishing on Lake Audubon – the lake is stocked with muskie, which are similar in size and coloration to northern pike. Be certain of species identification when keeping pike because all muskie less than 48 inches in length must be released.

TROUT:

Trout aren't native to North Dakota lakes or rivers. They don't spawn naturally in the state, either, so any trout fishery is a result of the cooperative fish spawning, rearing, and stocking program between the Game and Fish Department and U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service Garrison Dam National Fish Hatchery below Lake Sakakawea.

The Game and Fish Department stocks several community ponds, including Minot's North Dakota State Fair Pond. Rainbow and brown trout are also in the Missouri River below Garrison Dam.

Spring Lake Park near Williston, Kettle Lake northeast of Zahl, and Stanley and Watford City community ponds are stocked annually.

WALLEYE:

Given their popularity, walleye are the most common fish species across North Dakota lakes and draw the most attention from fisheries managers.

The Missouri River System - Lake Sakakawea, Lake Oahe, and the river itself - plus Lake Audubon and Devils Lake are the state's premier walleye fisheries as well as regional destinations for many anglers.

However, other smaller nearby lakes can provide walleye opportunities and may not garner as much attention. Lee suggests places like Buffalo Lodge Lake, Lake Metigoshe, Lake Audubon, Hiddenwood Lake, Antelope Lake northeast of Anamoose in Pierce County, or Clear Lake southeast of Anamoose. A word of caution, though, Lee offered — Clear Lake doesn't have a boat ramp and shore access is limited.

The south side of Lake Audubon is closed to open water fishing because it's part of the Fish and Wildlife Service's Audubon National Wildlife Refuge. Buoys mark the boundary across the water. Even so, Audubon has ample shore-fishing opportunities with a Game and Fish Department Wildlife Management Area embracing the north side of the lake to provide multiple boat access points.

Look for the possibility of keeper-sized walleye from White Earth Dam with an occasional larger walleye from Northgate and Blacktail dams.

Early season is the time to try jigs and minnows for walleye, moving into jigs and nightcrawlers as summer advances. Spinners or slow death hooks with nightcrawlers are typically good summer presentations.

The N.D. Game and Fish Department website, (gf.nd.gov) has just about everything an angler needs to know to help them head to the water for a summer fishing adventure. Simply click "Fishing" on the home page, and then "Where to Fish" for details.

The N.D. Game and Fish Department stocks catchable sized rainbow and brown trout in several community ponds in the state, providing shore-fishing in small and larger towns alike. For example, the North Dakota State Fair Pond has trout, as do ponds in communities such as Stanley and Watford City. In addition, the Missouri River tailrace below Garrison Dam is another good location to test one's fly-casting ability.

Although walleye are the most-desired fish species among anglers heading to North Dakota lakes and rivers, many lakes across the state offer a variety of other species.

Adams Lake

Lots of small perch, with some up to 10 inches, and a few Walleye.

Arnegard Dam

Primarily pike, with some larger fish. Some adult perch and an abundance of black bullhead. Stocked with adult catfish in 2016.

Bisbee Dam -Big Coulee

Pike, walleye, perch, bluegill and crapple. Most walleye longer than 16 inches. Good pike numbers with some up to 6 pounds. Most perch are small.

Boundary Lake

Decent number of 6-8 inch perch.

Coal Mine Lake

Good number of northern pike, with some larger fish.

Crooked Lake

Good number of nice sized pike and walleye, with some smaller perch.

East Park Lake

Decent walleye numbers, with some larger fish. Fair number of small to medium sized yellow perch. Bluegill population has increased in recent years.

Epping-Springbrook Dam

Fair populations of northern pike, walleye and perch. Black bullhead abundant.

Fox Lake

Good walleye and perch populations, with larger fish present.

Froelich Dam

Walleye and pike abundant. Yellow perch, crappie, bluegill and largemouth bass present.

Gravel Lake

Pike and perch fishery. Pike average about 24 inches and most perch under 10 inches.

Green Lake

Quality walleye and perch fishery, with a low number of pike.

Harmony Lake

Good number of bluegill, with some quality sized fish. Stocked annually with rainbow trout.

Hatchery Kids Pond

Good shore fishing for early season trout.

Jasper Lake

Walleye up to 25 inches abundant and a fair number of large perch present.

Juanita Lake

Mirror Lake

Stocked fry walleye in May.

Nelson Lake

The best largemouth bass lake in the state. Abundant quality sized bluegill and crappie.

Northgate Dam

Good populations of walleye, rainbow trout and bluegill. Fair number of black crappie and a few largemouth bass.

Odland Lake

Abundant perch up to 1 pound & bluegill up to 1 pound. Abundant young walleye, with some up to a quarter-pound.

Painted Woods Creek

Fair number of northern pike.

Paris Lake

Fair number of perch various sizes.

Rafferty Lake

Walleye up to 18 inches abundant.

Round Lake

Good number of pike and some walleye.

Smallmouth bass can be an underappreciated fish among many North Dakota anglers because of their passion for walleye but they're missing out on a lot of action and good eating. Try some of the McClusky Canal lakes, Lake Audubon, or rocky points on the bays of the east end of Lake Sakakawea.

Fort Abraham Lincoln State Park

Rich in both military and early Native American history, Fort Abraham Lincoln was once an important infantry and cavalry post. It was from this fort that Lt. Col. George Armstrong Custer and the Seventh cavalry rode out on their ill-fated expedition against the Sioux at the Little Big Horn. Portions of the military post, including the Custer House, have been reconstructed. Popular with visitors is On-A-Slant Indian Village. Reconstructed earthlodges depict the lifestyle of the Mandan Indians, who occupied this site from about 1575-1781. A modern campground is located in a scenic wooded area adjacent to the Heart River with picnic sites and playground equipment. Walking along the gently sloping hills, visitors have a panoramic vista of the Missouri River from the park's nature and historic trails. The park also has 4 primitive campsites with horse corrals.

Turtle River State Park

Situated on the meandering Turtle River, Turtle River State Park is located in a beautiful wooded valley. Constructed in the 1930s by the Civilian Conservation Corps, the park offers year-round recreational activities, including camping, picnicking, fishing and trails for hiking, mountain biking and cross country skiing.

Theodore Roosevelt National Park

Whether you're an avid camper, a hiking expert or just love beautiful scenery, there is something for everyone to enjoy at Theodore Roosevelt National Park. The park spans a total of 70,447 acres and is open year-round, although some trails and facilities are only open seasonally. The North Unit Visitor Center is open daily April to mid-October and Friday, Saturday and Sunday through the rest of the year. Be sure to drive the 14-mile Scenic Drive that leads in from the entrance of the park to Oxbow Overlook. The South Unit Visitor Center is located at the park entrance in Medora, North Dakota. It has an info desk, museum, movie and offers plenty of opportunities to learn about Theodore Roosevelt and his experience in the badlands. A major feature of the South Unit is the paved, 26-mile Scenic Loop Drive with interpretive stops that illustrate the parks history and natural features. Over 100 miles of trail make it a first-class hiking park, although because prairie and grasslands mostly surround the park, water and shade are limited along trails. Some are short self-guided trails while other trails span the length of the park.

Summer in Minot wouldn't be complete without a visit to the Roosevelt Park Zoo, one of the city's most iconic and family-friendly attractions. Nestled alongside Roosevelt Park, the zoo offers an unforgettable wildlife experience that blends rich history, conservation, and close-up encounters with exotic animals from around the world.

Founded in 1921, the Roosevelt Park Zoo is North Dakota's oldest zoo and it's still growing, evolving, and surprising guests over a century later. "We've been open for over 100 years," said Zoo Director Logan Wood. "Our very first official zoo animal was a bison, but unofficially, a couple of squirrels were the first residents. Since then, we've come a long way."

So, what sets this zoo apart? According to Wood, it's the only zoo in North Dakota with giraffes. "This summer, you'll be able to feed the giraffes no matter the season," he shared. The zoo is also home to the okapi, a striking and rare relative of the giraffe that's native to Congo. With zebra-like legs and a horse-like body, the okapi is a critically endangered species. According to Wood, "We're the only zoo in North Dakota that has an okapi." Despite ongoing construction and renovations, the zoo houses more than 25 species. One animal in particular stands out. "Everyone knows Cassie," said Wood. This White-Handed Gibbon is over 40 years old. Wood joked, "She's just the loud, obnoxious one who likes to sing." He went on to explain, People today grew up with the older animals, and now they bring their own kids, still remembering visiting Cassie when they were young. She's loved by so many of the Minot locals.

Roosevelt Park Zoo goes beyond entertaining the guests that come daily, it's deeply committed to conservation, both local and global. The zoo supports numerous programs, from pollinator studies in the Midwest to endangered species work in South America and Africa. "We most recently sponsored a watering hole in Kenya," said Wood. This supports both wildlife, such as giraffes and lions, and the local communities that depend on the water source. Wood said, "We're also working with critically endangered Tapir species." Locally, the zoo contributes to efforts to restore black-footed ferrets, a species once declared extinct. The zoo also does some pollinator work using the Bumblebee

Atlas, which is a conservation initiative brought on by the Xerces society. This initiative is used to help conserve and track bumble bees throughout the United States.

A day at the Roosevelt Park Zoo begins early for the animal care team. "What we say is there is never a typical day at the zoo," said Wood. The staff at the zoo starts their day with a morning debrief before heading out to check on the animals, clean exhibits, prepare enrichment activities, and ensure that every creature is healthy and happy. Enrichment is a big part of the animals' daily lives: puzzle feeders, scent trails, or new toys-all designed to keep animals mentally and physically stimulated. Some of the staff participates in voluntary training for healthcare routines, like vaccines or checkups. In the afternoons, keepers often host "keeper chats", giving guests a closer look at the animals and their personalities.

North Dakota's weather can be unpredictable, but the zoo is built with that in mind. Some animals, like their Amur tigers and leopards, come from cold climates and thrive in subzero temperatures. "Other animals like our giraffes and tigers, they need to stay warm. That's why we just build the new African Plains Building, so that then people can see those animals, which previously they haven't been able too," explained Wood.

Whether you're visiting for the first time or returning for your 30th visit, Roosevelt Park Zoo promises a fresh, fun, and educational experience every time. "We're a community-based zoo," said Wood. "We listen to our visitors, and we want every visit to be a little different. We're always growing, and we want our guests to grow with us."

MHA Nation Interpretive Center Honoring Native Culture

If you're looking to experience and learn about North Dakota's extensive indigenous culture, be sure to take a visit to the new MHA Nation Interpretive Center in New Town, North Dakota! The MHA Nation, which is comprised of Mandan, Hidatsa and Arikara Nation tribes, also known as the Three Affiliated Tribes, is located on the Fort Berthold Indian Reservation in central North Dakota and includes over 16,800 members. The Interpretive Center is a newly developed tribute to the history and heritage of the Three Affiliated Tribes.

"We wanted to have a place where people could physically come and experience our culture, whether it's our own members from our reservation or people from off the reservation... We are a very rich culture and there is so much history and so much more to us than people know. It's an opportunity for people to see the entirety of what we've been through as Mandan, Arikara or Hidatsa people and where our history first began and where it is today, because we're still thriving," said Mykal Drosdal, Marketing Manager.

The center includes a variety of amenities and informative displays, including interactive exhibits and a recording studio for tribal members and elders to record their own stories to pass down for generations to come. They offer traditional catered meals and a coffee shop. It also includes two meeting rooms and a scenic rooftop that overlook Lake Sakakawea to be rented out for conferences, meetings, or weddings. The outdoor amphitheater holds up to 500 people for concerts and events. The MHA Interpretive Center also hosts permanent and rotating galleries that display artifacts and history from the three tribes as well as cultural seminars on beading, traditional agriculture and storytelling. There are also archival rooms for research and preservation of artifacts.

The Interpretive Center held its grand opening on May 19, 2021, and the staff looks forward to planning future events and exposing travelers from all over to the amazing heritage of the MHA Nation. Check out their Facebook page at MHA Nation Interpretive Center. The MHA Nation Interpretive Center is located at 9386 Lake Sakakawea Road, New Town, ND.

North Dakota's first interactive science and children's museum is bursting at the seams with excitement! The glowing building on Minot's North Hill has been beckoning the imaginations of children (and adults) for months. In May 2023, the building officially opened to the public!

Parents won't have to worry about their kids not learning over the summer break because the Magic City Discovery Center boasts 12 galleries of 150 interactive exhibits geared towards kids of all ages. Kids can expel energy at the climbing walls and the extensive 37 foot Magic Climber where the peak offers a 360 degree view of the Magic City itself through glass windows.

Kids will also experience physical science come to life in the Air Forces gallery where different playscapes offer hands -on learning about wind energy. Although science focused, the Discovery Center also includes a space for the artist to blossom with the Creativity Studio. This gallery "encourages fearless creativity, creative problem solving, and risk as children of all ages explore a wide range of art disciplines with STEAM relationships to both process and products."

They offer yearly family memberships, military discounts and a wide range of open hours both on weekdays and weekends. Come on out and experience the brand new Magic City Discovery Center this summer! The kids will have so much fun you will forget how much they are learning!

As you climb out of the shadow of the bluff on thirteen green, our signature holes await. "The Badlands Holes" number 14, 15, and 16 will take you through a rugged fairway gorge. From butte-top tee boxes to a green among a sea of Badlands, this is one golfing adventure you're not soon to forget.

Bully Pulpit Golf Course

Pitchfork Steak Fondue

Every evening our chefs load steaks onto pitchforks and fondue them western style. Savor your steak as you overlook the picturesque Badlands from atop a bluff at the Tjaden Terrace. Your steak comes with all of the fixin's. Plus, you'll be serenaded with western melodies performed live by members of The Coal Diggers from the Medora Musical. Don't miss this unique dining experience that was featured on the national television show, Best Of, on The Food Network!

The Medora Musical

The Medora Musical is the rootin'-tootinest, boot-scootinest show in all the west! There's no other show quite like it. Set in the outdoor splendor of the rugged North Dakota Badlands, this professionally produced, high energy, western-style musical show is proudly dedicated to the legacy of America's 26th President, Theodore Roosevelt, and the time he spent here in the Badlands of the Dakota Territory.

Teddy Roosevelt National Park

Encompassing over 70,000 acres of breathtaking North Dakota Badlands, there's an adventure for everyone at TRNP. For starters, drive through the south unit of the park on the 36-mile scenic loop through the buttes and Badlands. The winding drive features striking overlooks with unbelievable views, trailheads for 12 different hiking trails (more on those below), interpretive signs about the Park's history and natural wonders, and real prairie dog towns – plus, you might even get a close up with a buffalo! Experience this unique wilderness through daily Ranger programs which include short talks, guided walks, tours of Roosevelt's Maltese Cross Cabin and evening programs at the campground amphitheater. Or set out on an experience all your own!

Theodore's Dining Room

Enjoy this fresh culinary experience in a historic and elegant atmosphere. You will be in the well-trained hands of our executive chef. Whether you're craving a scrumptious steak, or a refreshing after dinner drink, stop at Theodore's and treat yourself. All taste buds are treated equal at Theodore's. From fresh garden salads and delectable brussel sprouts, to baconwrapped steaks and tantalizing buffalo osso bucco, Theodore's Dining Room has something for everyone!

EXPLORE MEDORA CONTRACTOR OF THE PROPERTY OF T

Medora, North Dakota may only have a population of 130 people, but it holds an immeasurable impact on those who visit. Nestled between the rugged buttes of Theodore Roosevelt National Park and the bright lights of the city, Medora offers a unique blend of experiences that make it one huge destination.

The vastness of the horizon is one of Medora's most defining features. With its rolling prairies and towering buttes, the landscape is nothing short of breathtaking. It's no wonder that a young Theodore Roosevelt was captivated by the beauty of the area, which later led to the establishment of Theodore Roosevelt National Park. The way the horizon expands in Medora is awe-inspiring and has the power to leave visitors feeling both humbled and empowered.

But Medora's charm extends beyond its natural beauty. The town itself has a unique character that draws people in. Despite its small size, there is always something going on in Medora. The summer months are especially busy with nightly performances at the Medora Musical, which has been entertaining audiences for over 50 years. The show is paired with the Pitchfork Steak Fondue which is just like it sounds, great big pitchforks loaded up with steaks and deep fried cowboy style are the star of the evenings menu. The experiences of Medora expand deep into the world of history where visitors can take in the sights at the North Dakota Cowboy Hall of Fame or learn about the namesakes of the town at the Chateau de Mores State Historic Site.

One of the best things about visiting Medora is the way time seems to slow down. Afternoons move at their own good time, giving visitors the chance to soak in the beauty of their surroundings and disconnect from the hustle and bustle of everyday life. It's a chance to unplug and appreciate the simple things in life, like a warm summer breeze or the sound of birds chirping in the distance.

Medora is the perfect year-round destination for travelers. In the fall, visitors can enjoy the breathtaking views of the changing leaves, the slower days and crisper air of a stroll through town. Plus, a special Broadway style show playing at the Old Town Hall Theater in September and October. Winter, brings a peaceful winter wonderland with snowcapped Badlands, a roaring fire at the Rough Riders Hotel, and delectable food at Theodore's Dining Room. Spring brings new life to Medora, with a great view of wildflowers and baby animals, perfect for hiking, biking, and horseback riding. Bully Pulpit Golf Course also welcomes golfers mid-April. No matter the season, Medora offers a unique blend of natural beauty, small-town charm, and year-round activities, making it the perfect destination any time of year.

While Medora may be a tiny dot on the map, it holds a big place in the hearts of those who visit. The memories made in this small town are larger than life, and the impact of the experience is immeasurable. From the stunning natural beauty to the unique character of the town, Medora offers a one-of-a-kind vacation that is sure to leave visitors feeling rejuvenated and inspired.

In a world where bigger is often perceived as better, Medora proves that sometimes the most extraordinary experiences can be found in the most unexpected places. So why not plan your next vacation to this little town with a big heart? With 1883 reasons to visit, there's never been a better time to discover the magic of Medora.

The community of Rugby is perhaps known best for being the Geographical center of North America as well as the location for the annual Pierce County Fair. Rugby is located 64 miles east of Minot. Rugby has several places of interest for tourists such as a Museum, Library, Golf course, Movie Theater, swimming pool, parks, playgrounds, hockey arena, baseball diamonds, frisbee golf, tennis court, pickleball court and excellent hunting grounds for waterfowl, upland game, and big game. Each summer, the small town hosts the Pierce County Fair June 26-29, 2025 which invites locals and communities nearby to attend attractions such as the demolition derby, and carnival rides.

From recreational facilities and shopping, to museums and historical landmarks, Rugby has something for everyone. Whether you're here for the day, a weekend getaway or an extended stay, we have the services and attractions to make your visit both pleasurable and memorable. The Geographical Center of North America was established at (or near) Rugby by a U.S. Geological Survey in 1931. A year later, W. B and E.B. Paterson - assisted by the local Lions Club, Boy Scouts and other volunteers - erected a fieldstone monument at the intersection of U.S. Highway 2 and N.D. Highway 3 to denote Rugby's geographical distinction. Thousands of visitors stop at the monument each year to snap photos at North America's geographical center.

Searching for an all-around destination for your summer adventure? Look no further than Watford City, North Dakota! Watford City is located in McKenzie County, about 2.5 hours west of Minot Air Force Base. Whether you're looking for a cultural experience, fun for the whole family, or an outdoor adventure, Watford City has it all.

The historic city is nestled in western North Dakota near some of the state's most popular attractions, including Theodore Roosevelt National Park and the Little Missouri National Grasslands. Tobacco Gardens Resort and Marina offers local camping, kayak rental, fishing and boat access. Walk or bike the Maah Daah Hey Trail for a taste of North Dakota's majestic terrain.

Take a day off to explore downtown Watford City and you'll find a variety of local shops with hand crafted gifts and North Dakota treasures. The Wild West Water Park has water slides, a splash pad, and a variety of swim activities for some family fun on those extra hot days. Grab a bite to eat and settle down with a drink at one of their unique restaurants, coffee shops, or even the local brewery.

For the history buffs, Watford City has many attractions nearby for visitors to learn about North Dakota's rich past. The McKenzie County Heritage Park sits on six acres of land and includes historic buildings from all over the state and is now open year-round. Nearby, the Fort Union Trading Post National Historic Site and Fort Buford State Historic Site offer a glimpse into the history of life on the frontier with original structures and informative (and sometimes interactive) exhibits. Take a tour of a Native American earth lodge and learn more about North Dakota's Mandan, Hidatsa, and Arikara people at Knife River Indian Villages National Historic Site. At the nearby Fort Berthold Indian Reservation, you can hear stories from cultural interpreters and even spend the night in an earth lodge to experience the heritage of North Dakota's indigenous peoples.

To learn more about all Watford City and McKenzie County have to offer and even take a virtual tour, visit www.visitwatfordcity.com. Plan your trip Watford City today to experience small town charm with big-city attractions!

I'm a traveler now. I wasn't always. After we were stationed at RAF Mildenhall, England, about 10 years ago, I uncovered a European attitude that I wasn't aware existed. The Europoeans (much before Covid) all seemed to adopt a traveling spirit that I hadn't found in the 25 years I lived in the US. Traveling to new countries and places, taking a "holiday," was something the Brits and Europeans seemed to do all the time. Yet I knew many people growing up that had never even left the state of Texas, some never even traveling beyond a 200-mile radius. But as anyone who has lived overseas will tell you, travel is much more commonplace. So, after a first year of a colicky baby, my small family and I gave in and joined the travel epidemic around us. I was awed by the new worlds that greeted me. Thus, like so many before me, I fell in love with travel.

Since that time I have made it my mission to use our home base (wherever that may be) and find the coolest places we can visit in the surrounding areas. Knowing we will only be in each place a short time, it gets my travel engines pumping. After surviving my first Minot winter this past year, I needed to get out of town, and fast. But where could we go? What was affordable, driveable and kid-friendly? Looking slightly south in an attempt to warm a tiny bit, my family and I settled on none other than South Dakota!

The state of South Dakota is massive and, unlike its upstairs neighbor North Dakota, there were a lot of places that popped up when I Googled "Places to Visit in South Dakota.' We only had six days, and we knew we wanted to visit our good friends stationed at Ellsworth AFB near Rapid City, so I started our trip in that area. Day one started a little after sunrise and ended at our first destination of Deadwood in the Black Hills. The drive was only about seven hours from Minot, but I do need to add that when driving anywhere for long distances in the Dakotas, get gas wherever you can! I know it is crazy expensive nowadays and probably even more so in these backroads towns, but trust me. We learned the hard way that gas stations are not readily available in the North Dakota state highways and backroads. If you see a gas station on a long journey, top off, just to be safe. Back to Deadwood. Deadwood is known for its late 1800s gold rush and the legendary lawmen and outlaws that roamed the area. The town itself is tiny, but there are lots of hotel options in town to choose from. We stayed near the main street as we wanted to be within walking distance to the attractions. We visited the "Days of '76 Museum' which had a lot of kid friendly activities and information about the original settlers in Deadwood. It's worth a visit if you like museums. Since we visited in May, we were a little bummed to find out that many of the Deadwood classic activities were not yet open as the tourist season had not yet begun. If you like to do things in the offseason to avoid crowds, like us, you may be disappointed with Deadwood. I would suggest going during the crazy summer months with the rest of the tourists to get the full shows, and experiences.

After exploring everything we could in Deadwood we took off for Spearfish. We happened upon Spearfish City Park and my kids (ages 9 & 6) had a blast! If you've got kids, this playground will wow the entire family and is worth a stop. Outside the playground area was a little creek bed where we spent some time skipping rocks. While it was too chilly for wading, I imagine it is a popular splashing spot in the summer. We had to pull our kids away from the playground to explore the newlynamed D.C. Booth Historic National Fish Hatchery. We were skeptical about this place, but it actually ended up being really informative and interesting! Make sure you bring some quarters to get fish food and check out the re-made train car that used to transport fish all over the US. The fish hatchery is a really educational and free place to stop!

Our first evening in Rapid City we ventured out to the Dinosaur Park. It's a little bit of a steep climb to see the dinosaurs and toddlers may need some strict attention, but once at the top, the panoramic views of the city were amazing! This was a cool place to see but won't take up much of your time, so it's an easy 15-20 minute time filler.

Since we are a homeschool family, most trips end up being a bit educational. We have been studying the US Presidents and South Dakota has so much President information that we decided to make it the theme for our trip. Early on a cloudless, sunny morning, we headed to downtown Rapid City, intent on locating every single statue of American Presidents which are scattered within a few blocks downtown. A walking tour map can be located online at visitrapidcity.com.We printed this and started our adventure.

Yep, we found every single President (except Trump and Biden who haven't been made yet) and it took us a little less than two hours. This was honestly one of the most fun parts of our trip! My kids love a good checklist, so the hunt for all the presidents was a cool historic activity for us. Even if you don't think your family is up for the entire hunt, stopping and seeing at least a few is worth it for all ages. I'm not much of a foodie, so the places we ate were generally quick. But while in downtown Rapid City we did stop at Firehouse Brewing Company for some amazing food (they also have their own brewery and winery), and you definitely need to stop at Mary's Mountain Cookies for some absolutely delicious and unique flavor cookies! After our day downtown I dropped off my husband and kids at our friends' house who live at Ellsworth AFB, and my friend and I spent Mother's Day afternoon at the Prairie Ridge Golf Course outside Ellsworth AFB. This 9-hole course offers club rentals, great prices for military personnel and beautiful scenery. I'm a pretty poor golfer. For me it's all about the fun and company, but this course works well both for serious golfers and beginners. We had a blast!

Our 4th day in South Dakota was our busiest. We headed out to the Presidential National Wax Museum in Keystone. Since our trip revolved around the Presidents this was a must see! The whole family enjoyed seeing the realistic scenes as well as recording a mock- state of the union address video. We had a full day planned, but just looking around, there were so many cool things to do in Keystone including the Big Thunder Gold Mine and Rushmore Tramway Adventures and lots more. If we went again, I would plan for an entire day in Keystone for sure! After the museum we visited the much-anticipated Mt. Rushmore! While both my husband and I had been there before, our kids hadn't, and for some reason my six year old was amazed! As any parent will tell you, sometimes kids get excited about weird things and aren't into things you'd think they love. Well my daughter loved Mt. Rushmore and that in itself made it a highlight of our trip. The top gets a bit windy and maybe chilly so make sure and bring a jacket if the weather is iffy. Also be sure not to skip the walking trails. After Mt. Rushmore, we drove down to Crazy Horse Memorial and learned a lot about how and why it was and still is being built. After that we planned to drive through Custer State Park, but we decided at the last minute to take a detour to Evan's Plunge Mineral Springs in Hot Springs instead. It was out of the way, but we wanted to give it a whirl. The indoor pool features water slides and naturally warm mineral water from a thermal spring. The place itself was a bit dated, but the kids loved it. The water was chilly, but the unusual atmosphere made it a different type of activity for us and a much needed break in sight-seeing.

On our 5th and last day we headed out to Badlands National Park. Having younger kids, we're not all-day hikers, but the landscape there offered so many different types of visuals and mini hikes... it was a sight to see! We spent several hours there. On the way back to Rapid City we stopped off on the side of the road to see an old, retired missile silo. My husband and probably many other military members found this refurbished and glass ceiling silo to be a cool part of the trip. The silo even has a tour guide out there waiting to answer questions. It is worth stopping for those military enthusiasts and only takes a few minutes. The billboard advertising around the route also led us to stop at Wall Drug on the way back. I think we had the wrong impression of what it was going to be, but we were a bit miffed when what we found was a maze of trinket shops instead of a large and welcoming convenience store. But we got some ice cream and enjoyed the sun anyway.

At the end of the epic South Dakota vacation we were tired and happy. There was so much more to see that we didn't get a chance to, and western SD has so many options for visitors. Even with our full four days we couldn't see near enough. I think this area requires two full-sized trips, but it's definitely a place for families, hiking enthusiasts, motorcycle people (we drove through Sturgis) and really everyone. All I know is that a trip to the western part of South Dakota needs to be on everyone's list. The history, varying landscapes and tourist destinations make it a must see road trip for any Minot AFB resident.
